SERVICE SMILES

The Marksman

He was young and had been a high school dropout. He felt that perhaps he might find a career in the United States Army. So he went to the recruiting office. He was thrilled when he was informed it would be possible for him to continue his education. And eventually get his high school diploma.

He enlisted and everything went smoothly until he was given instructions on how to handle a rifle. When he went out to the firing range, he could see himself making all bullseyes. Came his turn to fire. Not a trace of anything on his target. The sergeant smiled in a friendly manner.

"Cheer up. It often happens the first time. Take an hour break. You will have another chance."

So an hour later he was again on the firing line. He was determined to show he could be a marksman. Fired the required rounds at his target.

"Clean target on 7," said the spotter.

The sergeant was puzzled. Something was wrong. Could be the sights. He fired that rifle and hit the center each time. Again the young recruit fired. Again a clean target. So they check his eyes. 20/20 in each eye and no defects. The sergeant called in two experts. Again the young fellow shot. Not a bullet on the paper. So they asked him if he would follow their advice. He agreed.

"When World War III breaks out, join the enemy. That way we will be much better off than if you were on our side shooting at them."

Weather Reports

At one of our training bases in the west they were having trouble with the weather reports. Here the men were turned into first class parachute jumpers. But in the last three weeks the weather reports had been all wrong. Each time it looked like a nice sunny cloudless day. The men went up in the planes. And then the clouds seemed to appear from nowhere. With two sudden storms to boot.

"If I were superstitious, I would say that somebody is putting a Hex on us," signed the major.

"We have our own weather experts here," added the Colonel. "And why are they so wrong?"

"I don't know, Colonel," said the young Captain. "But at least I have an idea that will make them wake up. There's an old Indian Chief who is said to be a weather prophet. Suppose we hire him for a trial. Just one. And if it works, we keep it up."

The Colonel had a sense of humor, so he agreed. The Indian Chief set a high price on his service - $100 a forecast. And he was very much surprised when the Air Force agreed to pay it. His first forecast was: Cloudy and stormy. The day looked bright but two hours later the Indian Chief was proven to be correct. Next week he said: Afternoon will be bright and calm. Morning was cloudy. Again he was right. He made seven more correct predictions. Then the training period was over. The Colonel told him he would be hired next year. The young Captain was mystified.

"Chief," he pleaded, "I got you the job. I swear not to tell your secret. How do you figure out the weather?"

"I listen to 5 A.M. weather report on radio," was the answer.

The Diagnosis

He wanted to enlist in the United States Army. He filled out the form and the recruiting officer looked at him.

"Any relation to the famous General by that name?" he asked the young man.

"My father," was the reply. "He started as an enlisted man."

They made things easy for him. Gave him a preliminary physical examination and he checked out 2100 o.k.

"Anything that wouldn't show up on our examinations?" the M.D. asked him.

"Something very peculiar," he admitted. "Happened during the last three years. At 11 A.M. I roll my eyes, open my mouth, and stick out my tongue. Only for three minutes. Then it goes away."

It was ten minutes to 11 A.M. and the curious M.D. waited. Sure enough, it happened!

"I don't believe what I saw," he admitted. "Go home and come back in a week. I want to discuss this with some specialists."

So our young man returned home. To discover burglars had been there while he was away. They took his suits and three dozen shirts. But he was rich. So he went to a shirt maker.

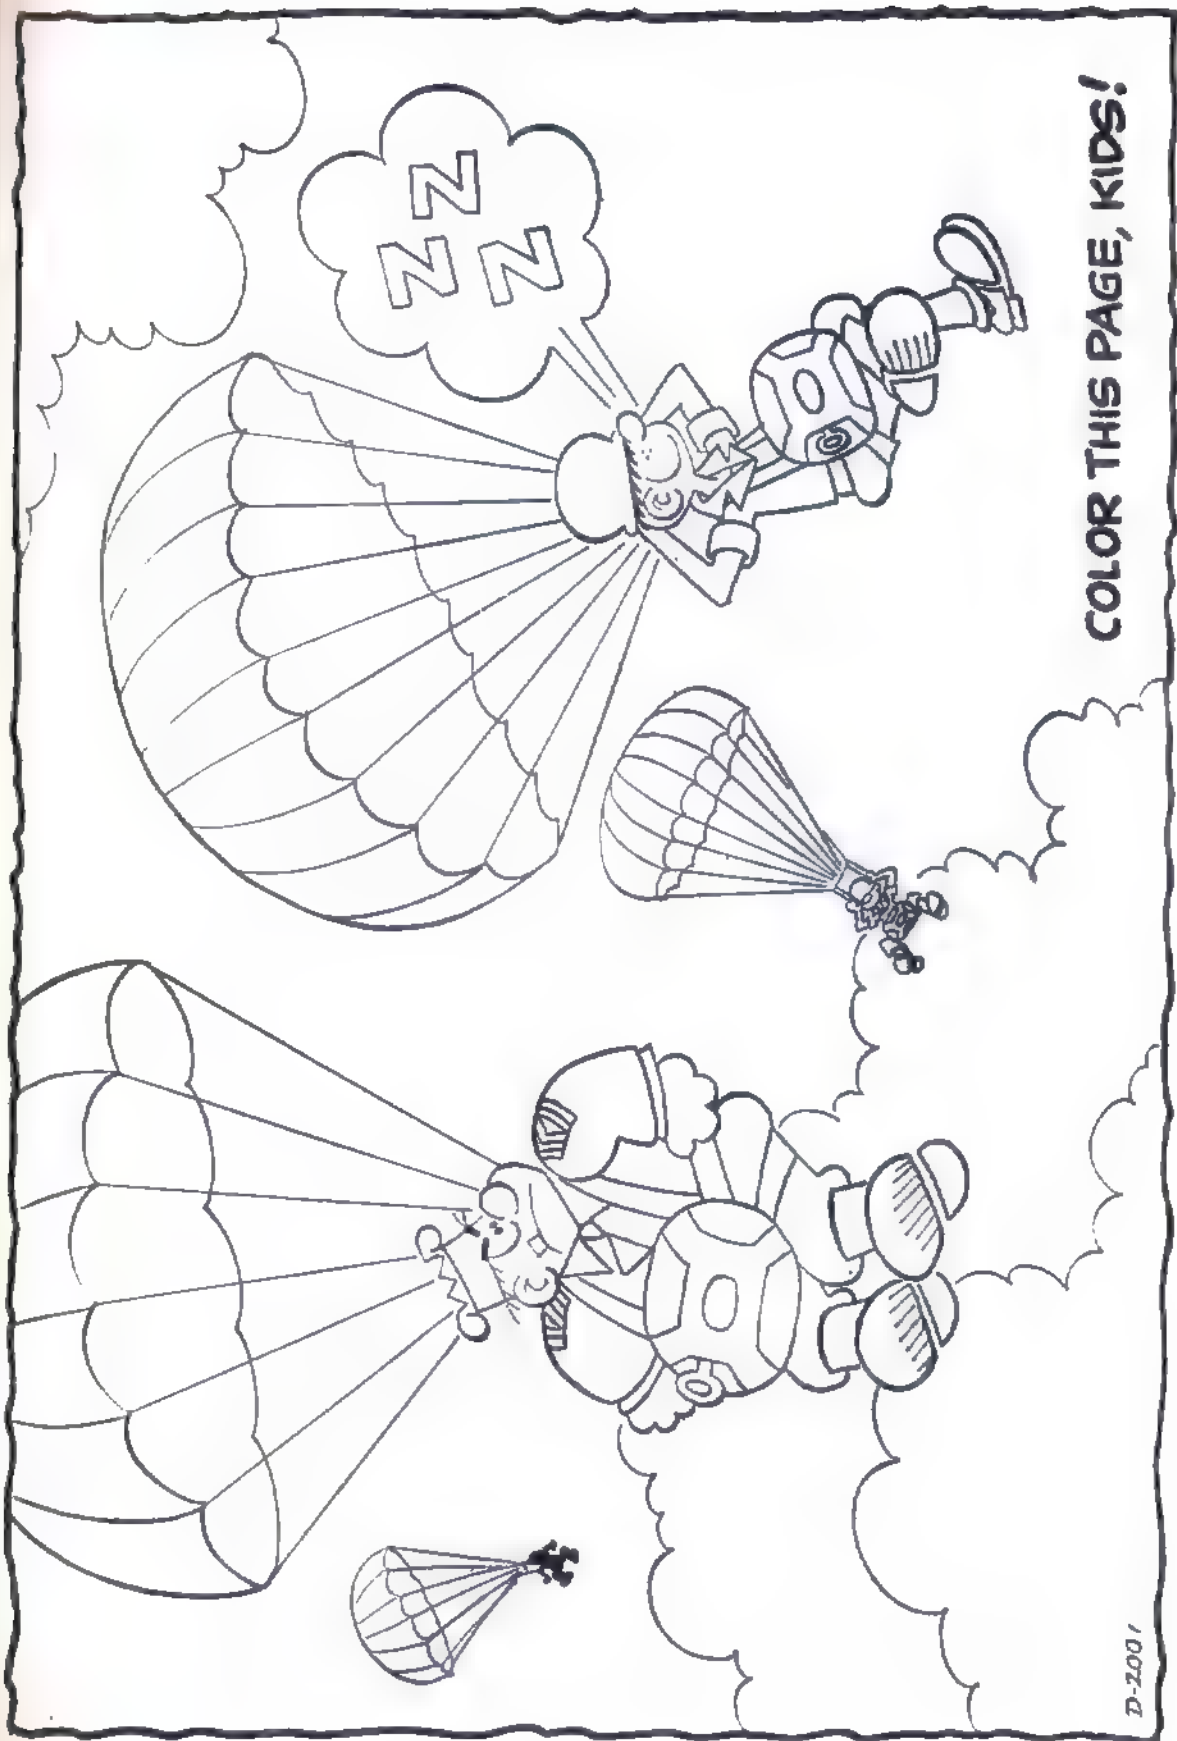

"I want three dozen shirts. Collar size is 14 and sleeve length is 30 inches."

The shirt maker measured him and told him he needed collar size 15-1/2 and sleeve length 33 inches.

"But I like it my way," he protested. "And I am paying the bill."

"So have it your way," he was told. "But the result will be with the wrong measurements that at 11 A.M. every day you will roll your eyes, open your mouth, and stick out your tongue. For three minutes only."

THE BEST BASEBALL GAME CANNOT BE PURCHASED IN A RETAIL STORE!

PITCHING • HITTING • FIELDING • RUNNING • MANAGING

Season after season, STRAT-O-MATIC BASEBALL has been sold to thousands of baseball fans exclusively through the mail. But why, you ask? Each year our baseball game is totally revised to reflect precisely the most up-to-date Major League statistics.

STRAT-O-MATIC offers such a current authentic reproduction of real life baseball and such a wide selection of games and individual team combinations, that it is impossible for a retail store to supply our fans.

In business since 1961, the quality and reliability of STRAT-O-MATIC BASEBALL speaks for itself in the fact that we have continued year after year to sell out all our editions.

In our 1971 edition, STRAT-O-MATIC presents you once again with the finest in baseball realism and entertainment. The hitting, pitching, fielding and base running abilities of 480 Major League players is unbelievably reproduced right from the ball park into your home. Leading average hitters such as Rico Carty and Alex Johnson will be among your own league leaders.

Bob Gibson the Cardinal's fine pitcher, will be difficult to hit and will allow few walks and home runs. Wes Parker, Dodger first baseman, will field his position as brilliantly in your game as he does in real life. Without hesitation, we recommend STRAT-O-MATIC BASEBALL'S 1971 Edition to be without equal.

The above are just some of STRAT-O-MATIC's highlights. For the entire story, mail coupon for a colorful FREE BROCHURE containing full detailed information and FREE STRAT-O-MATIC SAMPLES. Send Today To: Strat-O-Matic Game Co., Inc., 82A S. Bayles Ave., Port Wash., N.Y. 11050.

U.S. Government figures show the average high school graduate earns $94,000 more than the non-graduate. Here's what the extra money can mean:

Drive a new car, provide other luxuries for your family.

Watch your savings account grow.

Here's a convenient, pleasant way for anyone over 17 to finish high school at home — with just a few hours a week of spare-time study. You don't have to go back to school — school comes to you.

This practical program is offered by Academy for Home Study. It was planned especially for working men and women who need a diploma to get ahead and can't take time out to go back to classroom study. It offers these advantages:

- Full Credit for Previous Schooling
